RESEARCH MATTERS

The 2005 numbers have been crunched by the National Science Foundation, and Ohio State rose again – to #8 among public universities nationally and #12 among all universities in its research expenditures, spending $609 million that year.

A research powerhouse like Ohio State helps drive American innovation, discovery, and education. It also helps drive the local and state economies. Every $1 million spent on research produces 32 jobs in the local economy, says the U.S. Department of Commerce. Today, with expenditures at $652 million, Ohio State research supports more than 20,000 jobs.

Research leads to better jobs, better lives, and a better Ohio.
